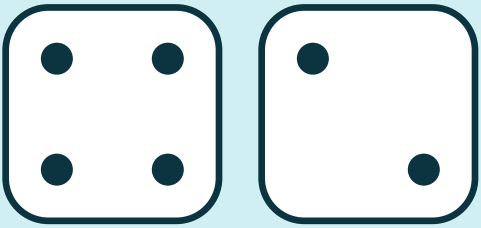
Roll & Read

R-controlled vowels and tricky words



Swipe to start >

Grab a real die. Four rows. Twenty-four words.

How to play

1. Roll a die.
2. Find the column that matches your number.
3. Read the word in that column in Row A. Then roll again for Row B, and keep going to Row D.
4. Cover the word, then spell it without looking (out loud or on paper). Uncover it to check.
5. Put a tally mark or a check next to each word you read correctly.
6. Challenge: use each word you read in a sentence.

Ways to Play

Partner race: Both players roll, read their word, and the first correct reader earns a point.

Write it: Roll, read the word, then write it on a whiteboard or in a notebook.

Sort it: Collect the words and sort them by spelling pattern (er, ir, ur, ear, ar, or) and by tricky words (Very, Every, Before).

Row A

Roll a die. Find your number. Read that word.

Her	Church
First	Birthday

Tricky words

NEW · not teacher-reviewed

The teacher's sheet calls these three words tricky. Say each one out loud. Look closely. Which part surprises you?

Very

Every

Before

Ask your teacher how they want these words practiced. No answer key is supplied.

Silly sentence

NEW · not teacher-reviewed

1. Pick two words from the game.
2. Say one funny sentence that uses both.
3. Write it in a notebook, or tell a grown-up.
4. Read it out loud!

Example idea: use Nurse and Songbird. Make it as silly as you like!

For grown-ups

NEW · not teacher-reviewed

What the game is

Your child rolls a die, finds the matching column, and reads a word. Then they cover the word, spell it, and uncover it to check.

A short session

Ten to fifteen minutes can be plenty. Stop sooner if they are tired. A few words, read happily, is a good day.

How you can help

Let your child try first. Praise effort ("You sounded that out!"). If a word is stuck, say it together and move on.

Good to know

Words and directions come from the teacher's sheet. Pages 7 and 8 are new and not educator-reviewed. Permission to share the original is not confirmed. Not a substitute for reading instruction.
